

DISH City Makeover Press Conference Call; DISH Network to Announce U.S. Town Renaming Itself 'DISH'

ENGLEWOOD, Colo.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov. 14, 2005--

Live Call-in Press Conference with President of DISH Network and Mayor
Available

A U.S. town has accepted the challenge to re-brand itself as part of the DISH City Makeover and rename itself "DISH." DISH Network will announce the name and location of the town on Wednesday, Nov. 16. DISH Network President Michael Neuman and the mayor of "DISH" will be available for questions during a conference call live from the town of "DISH."

About DISH City Makeover: DISH Network introduced the DISH City Makeover as part of recent re-branding efforts and a new advertising campaign trumpeting "Better TV for All." DISH Network launched the campaign this fall and received many entries from around the nation. The selected town will receive 10 years of basic satellite TV programming, including equipment and standard installation in every household.
