

DISH Network Launches Donation Channels

Customers Can Point and Click to Instantly Donate to American Red Cross Relief Efforts in U.S. and Japan

DISH Network L.L.C., a subsidiary of DISH Network Corporation (NASDAQ: DISH), has dedicated two on-demand channels to solicit donations from customers to provide disaster relief assistance in the United States and Japan.

Now through July 31, 2011, DISH Network customers can visit channels 1 or 501 and select one of the following channels labeled "Donate Storm Relief" or "Donate to Japan Here." They can then follow the simple on-screen instructions to make a $5 donation, which will be added to their subsequent monthly bill.

"We're pleased our technology can be used to assist the American Red Cross, an organization we've selected to support in helping citizens recover and rebuild," said Dave Shull, senior vice president of Programming for DISH Network. "We look forward to using this unique donation approach to aid other causes in the future."

DISH Network subscribers' gifts to the American Red Cross will help those affected by the recent tornadoes and floods in the United States or those affected by the earthquake in Japan and subsequent tsunami throughout the Pacific. Donations will enable the Red Cross to provide shelter, food, emotional support and other assistance to victims of these disasters.

"This support from DISH Network and its customers is critically important as we work to provide help and hope to survivors of the storms across the U.S. and the earthquake and tsunami in Japan," said Michael J. Brown, vice president of Corporate and Foundation Giving at the American Red Cross.

To make a donation through DISH Network, a customer's satellite receiver must be connected to a broadband or telephone line.
